Confession/Atzīšanās

The idea of the program and album originated in the spring of 2020 when everyday life changed due to the lockdown and serves as a testimony of how we felt in it. At the time when concerts and even rehearsals were frozen, during one of the Zoom online meetings, singers decided to make the most of this time by remotely creating a new programme of songs and recording them on a music album. For some, it was a routine process; for others, it was a big dare. For the first time in Latvian Voices history, all members of the group were involved in the creative process by writing original music, lyrics and, in the case of a few compositions, working together creatively. The songs of Pandemic Time are about the never-ending process of self-exploration, about the courage to discover the new and leave the past behind, about the value of presence, love, relationships and ourselves. Band member Jānis Strazdiņš says: "If our relationships were limited in real life, they continued to exist in music." In addition to the newly created compositions, the programme "Confession" will also feature the group's most recognised songs- both Latvian folk songs and the most popular international melodies. Over the years, Latvian Voices have created a style that blends together the Latvian cultural background, especially choral music, with contemporary a cappella music tendencies.
